Trading123.net Launches All-In-One Trendline Indicator for the NinjaTrader Platform

Denver, CO, August 11, 2009 – NinjaTrader, LLC, a leading provider of high-performance trading software for active traders, announced today that Trading123.net custom indicators will now be available for the NinjaTrader platform. Trading123.net users can execute trades in futures, forex and equities markets through NinjaTrader, an end-to-end trading platform that is supported by all leading market data vendors and world-wide network of supporting brokerages.

The T123 Trend Indicator for NinjaTrader can be used in any market, futures, forex and stocks. This indicator combines moving averages, MACD, oscillator and stochastic, plus bid/ask volume analysis to give traders a powerful tool that works under any market conditions. The T123 trend indicator shows the strength and weakness of the trend and identifies trend reversals and longs and short trade setups. The Blue dots on T123TrendLine Signal trend is up, the Red Dots Signal the trend is down.

“We are very excited about the release of the T123 TrendLine indicator for NinjaTrader charts,” says Patrick Moore of Trading123.net. “Our traders can now identify a T123 signal and easily submit their orders using the NinjaTrader Chart Trader tool to any market, futures, forex and equities.”
